Franky is a kitten that’s still learning about the world around him. However, one thing he’s sure about is that he adores cuddling with Liam, his human brother.

Liam’s mother, Rachelle Vaughn, explains that her son is ‘obsessed’ with Franky. He’s a big animal lover, especially of this kitten who loves hugs.

Since the moment they got Franky, Liam grew super fond of him and spent so much time together.

His heart shattered when they realized that Franky was missing.

Vaugh did everything in her power to try and locate Franky-she put up flyers and contacted shelters and checked out local Facebook groups.

But, nothing was working. Liam was sad. However, five weeks from the disappearing, someone spotted Franky on the street next to them. They took photos of him and shared it to a Facebook group.

They immediately contacted the people who turned out to be their neighbours and then located Franky. He was healthy and happy. The neighbour took him inside and gave him water and food until his owners arrive.

Liam still knew nothing- his mom decided to make it a surprise. When they left the house, she told him she was going to pick up an Amazon delivery that went to a different house.

Once they arrived to the neighbour's house, they went inside to take the package. This is when Liam spotted his neighbour holding Franky.

He immediately started crying. He recognized his favourite cat right away and despite being overwhelmed from everything, he was beyond happy to reunite with Franky.

Vaughn explains how her son 'cried and cried'. But, these were tears of joy!

They thanked their neighbour and headed home. Franky settled right away easily, as if he had never left. And, the cat has become even more affectionate than previously. He missed home as much as they missed him.

He's now following Liam around the house as if he's going to disappear.

What an amazing bond, don't you agree?
