She didn't have any school-work so she had sufficient time to create this piece of art.

Together with her mother, they bought almost 12 meters of fabric, as well as Swarovski crystals, crinoline, and boning.

The two sewed each panel from the skirt, one by one. When painting the flowers, she was very patient, focused, and dedicated.

She didn’t want to paint the basic roses and dainty florals because they may be pretty, but they don’t reflect her personality- she likes vibrant and loud colors like orange and green-they speak more about her, explained young Ciara.

The attention she received because of her dress is also helping her start her career in art.
