HEALTHY NEWS

Man Starts a ‘Rent-a-Daddy’ Service for $30/Hour to Help Single Moms

By bestfolkmedicine · 18/03/2024 · 2 min read

Raising children can be tough, but this dad from Australia showed that he is ready to step up and help if necessary.

ezstandalone.cmd.push(function () { ezstandalone.showAds(122); });

This dad, who seems to be searching for a new career, shared a comical plea offering his services as a ‘rent-a-daddy’.

Jake Orr from Blue Haven in New South Wales shared a list of tasks that he’s willing to do as a ‘rent-a-daddy’. They include dropping off the kids to school and picking them up from school, teaching kids how to mow the lawn, attending sports events, and helping out mothers.

ezstandalone.cmd.push(function () { ezstandalone.showAds(130); });

The trucker Jake, offering his service to step in for deadbeat fathers, wrote: "Has your baby daddy been acting up? Tired of him playing games? Does he put drugs and his mates before kids? Get yourself a rent-a-daddy."

Man Starts a Rent-A-Daddy Service for Single Moms

The cheeky dad shared on his Instagram and Facebook that his rentals were available for one or two weekends every month and that they include up to three activities that the child can choose.

ezstandalone.cmd.push(function () { ezstandalone.showAds(131); });
He didn't forget to mention that the family birthday parties and other events would be charged extra, as well as any family selfies and Facebook relationship statuses.

Interested customers would need to pay him $30 per hour, a standard rate for his services. This price has a 20 percent surcharge for Sundays after 4 pm. If the renters want to have a dinner date with him, they're expected to pay for the meal.

ezstandalone.cmd.push(function () { ezstandalone.showAds(132); });
He also wrote that any private time is negotiable upon application and that the children need to be asleep or absent. To ensure he's available as much as he can, the rent-a-daddy offered several payment options, including debit, cash, Zip Pay, and Afterpay.

Any interested parents will no longer have to wait for their other halves to tend to the kids or go to sports games they would rather skip.

Immediate Acceptance or Not?

People were quick to take up the rent-a-daddy up on his offer. He had more than 1,000 comments on his Facebook post. Some individuals praised his awesome concept whereas others jokingly asked if they could hire him despite not having kids.

ezstandalone.cmd.push(function () { ezstandalone.showAds(133); });
One woman asked him if she could borrow her friends' children for the day and tagged her friend in the comments.

One person joked and asked: “Does he have the right credentials? Working with children check?Car?License? 6 pack?Good in bed?”

Other people tagged their other halves in the comment and “warned” them to “not act up” or they would be replaced with the rent-a-daddy.

ezstandalone.cmd.push(function () { ezstandalone.showAds(134); });
Not everyone accepted this man’s bold career move. Some people seriously questioned his credentials whereas others suggested he wasn’t cut out for this job because he was holding a beer in his hand.

Sources:

DAILY MAIL

TOTALLY THE BOMB

Read online: https://bestfolkmedicine.com/2024/03/man-starts-rent-daddy-service-30-hour-help-single-moms/

Downloaded on 22/11/2026

DISCLAIMER: We do not provide medical advice and nothing contained herein shall be construed as medical advice. The contents such as text, comments, graphics, images, videos and other content contained on this site are for informational purposes only. Statements on this website have not been evaluated by the Food and Drug Administration, and are not intended to diagnose, treat, cure or prevent any disease. Always consult your personal physician before starting any fitness or exercise program or changing dietary habits. The content of this site is not intended to be a substitute for professional medical advice, diagnosis, or treatment. It is not a substitute for a medical exam, nor does it replace the need for services or counsel provided by medical professionals.